DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH STUDIES

Our mission guides us toward improving population health throughout Texas and beyond by providing competency-based educational programs focused on the knowledge, skills, and abilities relevant to the practice of public health.

Our educational programs are strengthened by our commitment to regionally focused, practice-based scholarship and service.

Our vision is simple: Texas A&M Department of Public Health Studies graduates will be world renowned for their competency as public health practitioners and as the preferred “new hires” of health organizations!

We invite you to join our family of faculty, staff and students on our collective journey for improving population health.
