The Department of Diagnostic Sciences is located in Dallas, Texas. It has two divisions: Oral Pathology and Oral Radiology, both with their own director and teaching programs.

Oral Pathology (https://dentistry.tamhsc.edu/diagnostic/training/oral-pathology.html) is responsible for the teaching of all general and oral pathology curriculum to first professional dental, dental hygiene, and graduate students. They provide consultation and biopsy services (https://dentistry.tamhsc.edu/diagnostic/pathology-service.html) to the College of Dentistry and the professional community. They offer a combined MS in Oral Biology and Certificate program in Oral and Maxillofacial Pathology.

Oral Radiology (https://dentistry.tamhsc.edu/diagnostic/training/oral-radiology.html) is responsible for all imaging service throughout the College of Dentistry. Additionally, imaging services are provided to patients referred by extramural dental providers through the Imaging Center. They offer a Certificate program in Oral and Maxillofacial Radiology.
