INTERDEPARTMENTAL DEGREE PROGRAMS

The Bachelor of Science in Renewable Natural Resources degree is an interdepartmental degree in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. It is offered in the Department of Ecosystem Science and Management (http://catalog.tamu.edu/undergraduate/agriculture-life-sciences/ecosystem-science-management), the Department of Recreation, Parks and Tourism Sciences, (http://catalog.tamu.edu/undergraduate/agriculture-life-sciences/recreation-park-tourism-sciences) and the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences (http://catalog.tamu.edu/undergraduate/agriculture-life-sciences/wildlife-fisheries-sciences).

Majors

- Bachelor of Science in Renewable Natural Resources (http://catalog.tamu.edu/undergraduate/agriculture-life-sciences/interdepartmental-degree-programs/renewable-natural-resources-bs)